Ralph Stanton

Looking for the Light / 2 – 13 August 2023

'Looking for the Light' is a continuation of Ralph Stanton's last show 'There's a Crack in Everything'. This new body of work reflects an underlying feeling that Ralph has.

That light is ephemeral.

It appears from behind, from the sides, from above, from below, indirect, yet luminous.

Light is integrated and inherent. The illumination of light may not be dramatic as a lightning strike, but rather seen as a glow.

"I'm interested in the patterns of light as they play out on the texture and of the paint's surface. The painting becomes like a piece of jewellery, an artefact in itself without the need for illustration or to tell a story"
